PRINCESS ALICE AND YUKON IN COLLISION

DOLLAR IS AT $1.01 3-8 TO-DAY AT NEW YORK

British Pound at New York Touches $5.34; Closes Day at $5.26 1-2

U.S. Gold Price Raised to $33.56

Canadian Press
New York, Nov. 14.—After soaring 20 cents higher to $5.34, the highest since 1914, the pound sterling receded on the foreign exchange markets here late today.

The pound closed at $5.26 1-2, up 12 1/2 cents yesterday.

The Canadian dollar closed at 13 1/2% premium, up one cent net.

The rapid climb in sterling rates today followed a further advance in the reconstruction corporation's price for newly-mined gold. Foreign exchange dealers reported the market was quite thin and the principal demand was for silver.

The Canadian dollar advanced to its highest level since early October, 1931, a premium of 5 1-16 per cent.

U.S. GOLD PRICE

Washington, Nov. 14.—A price of $33.56 an ounce was fixed to-day for Reconstruction Corporation purchases of newly-mined domestic gold, 11 cents above yesterday's level and a new high.

Meanwhile, the exchange value of the dollar was striking new lows which carried the London gold price in dollars well above yesterday, despite a drop in that quotation in British currency.

At the opening exchange rate of 52 17/16, London gold rate was 62 15/16. Later, the dollar sank to a new post-war low level of 52 21/16 to the pound, but it recovered fractionally.

At $33.56 the gold quotation was $33.53 an ounce.

MONTRAL GOLD PRICE

Montreal, Nov. 14.—The price of bar gold in Montreal, in terms of the Canadian dollar, based on the London price of 12m 7d, and the quotation of sterling in Montreal at 85.17%. Yesterday the Canadian equivalent was $33.10.

Canadian Senator's Son Is Held in France

Paris, Nov. 14.—Lord Hardie, twenty-two, of Brockville, Ont., who said he was the son of a Canadian senator, was held by police here to-day in connection with an attack he was alleged to have made on his mother, tame with an automobile crank.

Mrs. Hardie, suffering head injuries, told police she was unable to understand the reason for her son's action and he appeared calm at the time of the assault.

No Face-to-face Talk With Germans, Say French

AMNESTY SOON IN GERMANY

Large Nazi Vote From Camps Persuades Hitler to Free Political Prisoners

Gesture Is Expected to Have Placatory Effects on the Outside World

Associated Press
Paris, Nov. 14.—Fresh fears of the Chancellor Hitler danger to peace were openly acknowledged by Joseph Paul Boncour, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. He declared German "exaltation" was "fraught with adventurous possibilities."

"It is perhaps," he said, "a menace to European stability."

M. Paul-Boncour implied a face-to-face talk between France and Germany had been refused by declaring: "No accord or alliance can be made except within the framework of the League of Nations."

LECTION RESULTS

Referring to the German elections last Sunday, which expressed German confidence in their government policy, an overwhelming vote, he said:

"Hitler's victory Sunday will accelerate the demands. Despite repeated assurances of France and regardless of the government's will, underlying principles of the movement create risks that would, besides favorably affecting domestic sentiment, also go a long way toward placating foreign opinion."

It was regarded as significant M. Paul-Boncour carried to the rostrum documents enclosed in the red, white and blue of the French flag.

FRENDLY-GESTURE-WANTED

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Germany was believed to-day to be looking expectantly for a friendly gesture from abroad in matters of international politics—especially from France.

That of Lt. Hon. Arthur Henderson to resign as president of the Disarmament Conference unless nations change their attitude regarding arms was interpreted merely as Mr. Henderson's personal disappointment in regard to disarmament questions.

While internally grounds are being prepared for changes in the constitution (which may already have been decided on) when the Reichstag meets about December 1, German newspapers with one accord are hammering into their readers' minds headings such as:

"Europe must decide" or "German election determines European course," and many others in similar vein.

STATEMENT BY HENDERSON

Geneva, Nov. 14.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, discussing his threat yesterday to resign as president of the Disarmament Conference, to-day accused nations of the world of unwillingness to conclude an armistice.

The reason for the double shooting was not immediately explained.

Italy Will Lose Its Chamber of Deputies

Premier Mussolini Intends to Put National Council of Corporations in Its Place

Associated Press
Rome, Nov. 14.—Premier Benito Mussolini to-day said the Chamber of Deputies of Italy, which does not please him, is to be replaced by the National Council of Corporations.

Behind the summons against the sixty-year-old Duke lay the story of a scheme launched by him to save for Britain hospitals and ten-shilling notes that annually find their way to the Irish Free State for the sweepstakes.

He said this transformation of the legislative body would not be accomplished immediately, but when the new chamber meets next year it will be called on at once "to decide its fate."

Il Duce made this announcement in a speech before the convention of the National Council of Corporations. He said the council, as chief body of the powerful corporate system, must become a substitute for the chamber.

He commented in his speech the chamber had never pleased him.

The reason—the proposed reform would not be made immediately was, he said, there would be insufficient time before the election in March before the reform could take place in the customary fashion.

Premier Mussolini termed the rise of the corporate state as "coincident with the decadence of Socialism."

"Remove the fear of war by control of the means of making war—then such things as boundary problems would be trifling in comparison and easy of solution," said Professor Alfred E. Zimmern, professor of international relations, Oxford University, in an interview on international affairs to-day. Prof. Zimmern will speak at the Empress Hotel to-night under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

"Europe is in a state of extreme nervousness," proceeded Prof. Zimmern. "The fear of war is permeating the actions of Europe. Even the smaller nations of Europe, including the Dutch and the Danes, which is generally recognized as the most peaceful country in the world, are preparing to defend their frontiers against attack."

CURB GASOLINE LAW IS RESISTED

Act Ultra Vires, Says Counsel in Challenging Prohibition of Pumps

Case Arises Out of Replacement of Pump Broken by Car Collision

Regulations under the Fire Marshal's Act, prohibiting the erection of gasoline curb pumps, were attacked as ultra vires by H. A. MacLean, defence counsel, in an action in the City Police Court this morning against the National Motors Company Limited, charged with erecting a pump in contravention of the act.

Mr. MacLean claimed that the section of the act under which the regulations were passed by order-in-council gave power only to "regulate the storage of inflammable liquid," and said nothing about the distribution of the liquid, for which the pump was used. Moreover, it did not give power to prohibit, but only to regulate.

On this line of argument, he claimed, the regulation passed pursuant to the act prohibiting the erection of curb pumps was ultra vires.

All central Chile was shaken by the tremors, which lasted one hour. The tremor felt not only in the capital but in the seaport of Valparaiso and in dozens of smaller cities and villages.

Five persons were reported injured.

SHREWD ON FOUR QUARTER.

The Yukon, which was struck on the port quarter, suffered injury to several plates. She is commanded by Capt. H. Anderson, who immediately ordered his men to abandon ship west Vancouver, after the ship began to pitch. When it was learned that the Yukon was in no danger, Capt. Anderson headed in through the Narrows.

When the boat struck the passengers on both ships went on deck and were assured by officers that there was no danger. Covers were stripped from the lifeboats and everything was made ready to leave the ship.

Shortly before 11 o'clock both steamers docked in Vancouver and it was learned none of the passengers suffered injury and there was no panic.

The Yukon was enroute from Alaskan ports to Seattle. She discharged freight here and left for Seattle at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

One of the most interesting passengers aboard the Yukon is Stetia Elmer, from Yakutat, on her first trip "outside."

She was born in Alaska in 1888,

until the present trip.

Other passengers included: W. J. "Joe" Barrows, well-known Arctic flyer, Leonard Sepala, famous dogteam racer, and I. A. Batalhaup, of the northern air services. The passenger list included men and women from Alaska, Seattle, Cordova, Anchorage, Port Clarence, Haines, Valdez, Wrangell, Skagway, Yakutat, Juneau, Ketchikan and Latouche.

Admiralty Informs Commons Two 9,000-ton Cruisers and one of 5,200 Tons Included in 1933 Building in Place of Smaller Craft

Associated Press

London, Nov. 14.—The British Admiralty to-day announced revision of its 1933 naval programme to include two new-type 9,000-ton cruisers with increased armaments and one cruiser of the 5,200-ton Arethusa class.

Sir Bolton Speed, First Lord of the Admiralty, made a statement to the Admiralty in the House of Commons. He said the decision had been made after a review of the latest cruiser programmes of other countries and following the most anxious consideration and with much regret.

PLAN RESTRICTIONS

Sir Bolton emphasized that the United States and Japan, under terms of the London Naval Treaty, were entitled to build ships which those two countries contemplated, but nevertheless, it would be the policy of the British Government, by agreement, to restrict the vessels of larger size as much as possible.

He also said it would be the British policy to maintain the maximum size cruiser to be constructed in the future by agreement.

He stated revision of the 1933 programme of naval construction would result in a small reduction of the expense.

Sir Bolton prefaced his announcement by recalling the 1933 programme which provided for 7,000 tons for the Leander class and three of the Arethusa class of 5,400 tons, armed with eight and six 6-inch guns respectively.

SMALL CRUISERS

"The policy of building cruisers of comparatively small tonnage," he said, "had been adopted in the hope other nations will follow our lead."

"Unfortunately he said this hope had not been realized."

"In 1931 Japan laid down two more of the same dimensions of cruisers of 8,500 tons, reputed to mount fifteen six-inch guns," he said.

"It is learned she is now laying down and construction of yet another two, making six in all, is projected."

"The United States also has already announced an intention of building four cruisers of 10,000 tons, each with fifteen six-inch guns."

SMALL CRAFT HERE AFTER LONG TRIP

The John Antle, then known as the Syrene spent seven weeks at Gibraltar having run her engine installed. Then she crossed to England and spent several weeks at London, anchored within the shadow of Westminster Abbey and the Houses of Parliament. She was inspected by hundreds of Londoners, and British Columbia visitors, and was given a great send-off as she steamed down the Thames towards the open sea.

It was the first day of August when the John Antle hauled up her anchor and was cast off from her dock on the Thames. She called in at Falmouth, and left that port August 4. She headed out across the Atlantic and made a fast run to Las Palmas, in the Canary Islands, arriving there August 11, and remaining until August 17. She had fair winds most of the way, and the northeast trade winds helped her along on this stretch of the voyage, Capt. Antle said. She then headed for the West Indies, calling at St. Vincent, Port of Spain and Trinidad. From St. Vincent to Trinidad it took the John Antle thirteen days and sixteen hours.

"We seemed to miss all hurricanes in that region," Mr. Antle said today.

FLYING-FISH STORM

After leaving St. Vincent we had a regular storm of flying fish, though Mr. Antle said, in relating unusual experiences of the long voyage. "They flew into port holes and into doors and swam right up onto the deck. One morning we picked up thirty dead ones on deck and had a grand feast," for breakfast."

Before leaving London there was a garden party in the grounds of Lambeth Palace in honor of Capt. Antle. The dedication service on board was conducted by the Bishop of London, and the Master-General for British Columbians and Mrs. Burden, Hon. R. L. Maitland and Mrs. Maitland, Bishop and Mrs. Perrin and several other British Columbians then in London. Mr. Antle said this morning that the John Antle was the first and only Canadian ship to visit Britain and Yukon Aid Society of London, whose secretary is Dr. Jocelyn Perkins, canon at Westminster. This society will partially support the craft in her duties on the British Columbia coast.

FINE CREW

Capt. Antle this morning praised the excellent crew that helped bring the craft on her voyage. She left London with seven men. Two left at Balboa and two more were signed on there, and went as far as San Pedro. There Oscar Nurse, son of the Rev. Oscar Nurse, formerly of Vancouver, was signed on. R. W. A. Corlett was mate and navigator. He was from a shipowner on West Vancouver ferries. The chief engineer was E. W. Souter, who went overseas with the First Division of Canadian engineers. H. J. Connor of Vancouver was the cook, and B. Phillips, the quartermaster. Bill Gurnett, son of the Adjutant-General, and two students from the United States, who intended to come to Victoria with the John Antle, became so seasick when crossing the Bay of Biscay that they changed their minds and remained in London.

The beautiful figurehead that graced the craft when she was the Syrene was brought from London by Mr. Antle and will be presented to the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Built in 1921 by John Thornycroft & Sons, the John Antle is of double-skinned steel and copper riveted. She averaged eight-and-a-half knots. Her engine of sixty horsepower, is a semi-diesel, made by Widdop & Keighley.

After a few days in Victoria the John Antle will proceed to Vancouver, where she will be outfitted to take place of a million dollars with a Maori Column veteran of the British Columbia service. It will be early in the year before the new vessel is ready, as a dispensary will be installed and several other alterations carried out. The ship is open to public inspection during her visit to Victoria.

UNUSUAL SCENE

In the accused to-day Bow Street police court, London's theatre of every high life, had a strange actor in a stellar role. The Duke of Atholl is holder of probably more feudal rights than any other member of the peerage outside of the royal family. He is a Scottish peer. Over Blair Castle, his seat in Perthshire, he may fit the royal coat of arms, but has no military rank. There, too, he may, and does, retain armed followers.

His army now consists of 300 Highlanders. In the Great War the force was expanded to a brigade and the Duke, in person, led it to France.

A tall, grizzled, sixty-five-year-old warrior, John George Stewart-Murphy, his friends say he is highly conscientious where what he does duty is concerned. Also they acknowledge he has small patience with opposition.

He is eighth of his ducal line, holds nineteen titles, possesses many glittering decorations and owns more than 200,000 Scottish acres.

Mr. Bell, well versed in archaeology, added: "It is a wonder the stone was not credited to the wanderings of the Lost Tribe of Israel. Most archaeological finds are, you know."

REPLACEMENT LIST

When the fund was closed October 18, 357,764 persons had responded and trusted to the Duke's "uncontrolled discretion" £152,614 (normally £740,723) according to the published balance sheet.

At that total, £29,000 was set aside for charity and £36,000 was given to 745 contributors in sums ranging from £2.00 to £10. The remainder for the "gifts" were chosen was not revealed. Three trustees hold the charity fund.

Vancouver, Nov. 14.—Five deep-sea ships were anchored off Fraser River Sandheads to-day, awaiting lifting of the fog before proceeding up the river. They were the Se Regals, which had been waiting since Sunday night. Se Conqueror, waiting since early Monday morning, and the Oregon Express, since noon to-day. The fifth ship is the Golden Eagle, which left here 8 a.m. to-day.

Several ships are at berths on the river ready to sail, but have delayed, owing to the fog. In Vancouver Harbor also, the two dredges which have delayed their departure owing to the fog, which has enveloped the harbor and the gulf during the last couple of days.

Canadian-Australasian line reports Mr. Haukari due Thursday afternoon, weather permitting with a full cargo of sugar, flour, dried fruit, hemp and tobacco. The heavy consignment consists of 400 cases from Australia for provincial liquor boards, and the dried fruit consignment passed pursuant to the regulations.

Mr. Colvin answered the latter argument by pointing out that the regulations contained a provision stating they were of the same force as the act itself and could therefore be regarded as part of the act.

Italy's shift to the status of an observer generally was deemed to-day to have wrecked the united front. The opinion was expressed on all sides that the regulations must be tackled anew.

NO NEW CONFERENCE

London, Nov. 14.—The London Daily Mail said to-day the government was contemplating calling a further disarmament conference elsewhere than Geneva. The Foreign Office in Downing Street disregarded the report.

It was said the report was based on Prime Minister MacDonald's speech in the House of Commons yesterday, urging Germany to resume its armament negotiations, interrupted when the Reich withdrew from the Disarmament Conference and the League of Nations at Geneva.

The Mail's article followed the sensational threat by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, made yesterday evening in the House of Commons, to resign as president of the Disarmament Conference.

Manitoba Rune Stone Starts Much Discussion

NEW FIELD SEEN IN T.B. FIGHT

Connecticut Physician Reports Success in Series of Experiments

Associated Press

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Opinion of students of archaeology to-day was divided on the authenticity of a stone found on the shore of Lake Winnipeg. Strange markings seemingly chiseled on its side were believed by many to have been made by adventurers from Norway more than 570 years ago. Others, skeptical of the importance of the stone, declared they had been formed by the action of the weather on the rock.

Full meaning and importance of the history-fraught stone will not be known until roads to Sandy Hook, made impassable by week-end blizzards, are cleared.

Meanwhile, the boulder, measuring five feet in length and three feet in width and weighing several tons, stands alone on the bleak shoreline while the scientific controversy rages.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Possibility strange markings on a stone found on the shore of Lake Winnipeg were a genuine record of Norse exploration of Canada more than 570 years ago was dissipated to-day by Dr. C. N. Bell, honorary president of the Manitoba Historical Society.

Discovery of what were thought to be ancient Scandinavian inscriptions on the boulder found a Manitoba farmer by his son, Husarwick, forty miles west of Winnipeg, were believed under way for a merger of that company with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation.

THREE MEASURES

The reference was to three bills passed by the Daili session and now up for the Free State to be submitted to the Senate to-day. One bill, introduced by Senator George Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 14.—In a house of Commons this afternoon the republican government of the United States was charged by Lt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, with a fresh repudiation of the British-Irish treaty. The minister spoke carefully from a typewritten memorandum, declaring he was stating the view of the government of the United Kingdom.

MAKE SURE OF WORK AND WAGES

Only Way Is to Strengthen C.C.F. Opposition, Says Guy Sheppard

Associated Press

The way to make sure now of getting the work and wages promised by the Liberals is to strengthen the C.C.F. opposition, says Guy Sheppard, C.C.F. candidate in Victoria, told a large meeting in the Seaman's Institute, James Bay, yesterday evening.

Mr. Sheppard pointed out that the C.C.F. was the only party in the opposition to the Free State to be supported by sending to the Legislature strong opposition to the bill.

In important respects, Mr. Thomas charged, these bills conflicted with the Anglo-Irish Treaty of 1921, and their passage therefore "involve a fresh repudiation of obligations entered into by the Free State under that treaty."

VIEWS CLEARLY STATED

The minister declared: "We have already made it perfectly clear the view we take of actions of this kind, and apart from any question of legality, let us look on it as a repudiation of the Anglo-Irish Treaty."

NOT BOTH WAYS

It is our desire," the minister said, "that the Irish Free State should take her full part as a member of the British Commonwealth, grudgingly but of her own free will, accepting the responsibilities and the rights and obligations of membership."

"If she does not accept those conditions, then she must leave the British Commonwealth," he said.

"Does that mean that if these three bills become law we shall be free from bondage?" asked Col. J. C. Wedgwood, Labor, as the minister concluded.

Mr. Thomas made no reply.

Confidence Vote For British Government

Labor Party's Motion of Censure Voted Down by 409 to 54 in House of Commons

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 14.—A Labor Party motion of censure against the government in its disarmament policy was defeated in the House of Commons yesterday evening 409 to fifty-four. The vote came after long hours of debate. It found Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George's little group of Independent Liberals lined up with Labor. Sir Herbert Samuel's Liberal group abstained from voting.

The government's attitude was outlined by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who answered charges the administration had failed to carry out effective disarmament. Mr. MacDonald became exceedingly emphatic at times, in his defense of the British Government would not desert the Arms Conference nor the League of Nations; but neither would she increase her international commitments, nor make undue sacrifices for the sake of meeting demands for other nations.

HENDERSON'S POSITION

As a climax to the debate, Sir Stafford Cripps, Labor colleague of Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, read a personal note in which Mr. Henderson threatened to resign from the premiership if the Disarmament Conference unless there was change in the "attitude" of delegations regarding arms.

Unusual interest attached to the debate, for in Germany the Nazis were celebrating the sweeping "mandate" that they obtained in Sunday's balloting, while Italian and Hungarian delegates at Geneva were letting it be known they saw no use in continuing disarmament discussions until Germany comes back into the fold.

"We want Germany to come in, not at the end, but now," declared the Prime Minister. "We want Germany to be its own representative and its own spokesman. There must be an international agreement, and if failure comes, it will be the British Government's duty to make clear to the world on whose shoulders the blame for a break must rest."

COURSE WATCHED

It was too early yet to determine what result Germany's election would have on the disarmament situation, the Prime Minister said.

"I feel perfectly certain that the House would not wish the British Government to say to-day what precise means they are going to use in the unfortunate situation existing to get an international agreement," he said.

The government's disarmament policy, however, came under a double fire from the Labor side. In view of the Labor Party's declaration the policy did not reflect the country's strong desire for peace.

Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the non-government Liberals, challenged it as lacking energy and postponing vital issues till the propitious moment had passed.

Morgan Jones, opening Labor's challenge, charged the government with encouraging Japan—and had to face lively interruptions as a consequence.

Sir Herbert Samuel complained that while certain members of the government had worked hard, there had been no vehement urge from the Cabinet as a whole.

Referring to last summer's British International Disarmament Conference at Toronto, Sir Herbert said in his opening remarks that a step away from the League of Nations would be a step away from the Dominions. He urged a new offer be made to Germany which Germany reasonably could be expected to accept.

"We want Germany to come in, not at the end, but now," declared the Prime Minister. "We want Germany to be its own representative and its own spokesman. There must be an international agreement, and if failure comes, it will be the British Government's duty to make clear to the world on whose shoulders the blame for a break must rest."

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Pires cracked through wooden sections of Oaklawn and Sutro, San Francisco yesterday morning and death and destroying five homes.

Firemen of both cities, aided by police and volunteers, finally checked the advance of the curling flames, which were fanned by a warm wind that sent up a column of smoke in the direction of the mountains, the highest mark for November 13 in sixty years.

W. J. Lear, seventy-three, temporary employee of the Oakland city water department, was a victim of the blaze, which swept through a wooded region of the Oakland hills and burned an area of about half a mile square and a mile and a half long before it was brought under control.

Several volunteer fire fighters were injured, one of them, George C. Clark, seriously.

The home of Mrs. Joaquin Miller, widow of the poet, and studio occupied by Olga Fountain, artist, were destroyed. The roof was burned from the home of the poet's daughter nearby. "The Abbey," in which Miller once worked, was saved.

San Francisco's noted Sutro Forest was threatened by flames and started from a dry evergreen grove and spread to within 250 feet of a power house, before they were checked. Firemen said the damage was slight.

"Thriff becomes an act of monumetal improvidence when the currency is rapidly depreciating every day, and the spendthrift is recognized as the one prudent man of the family," said the general minister.

Mr. Cohen spoke directly to the report of the Royal Commission on Banking and the proposal for a central bank in the course of an address on Canada's financial, currency and economic problems.

"It is my personal opinion," he continued, "that recent tragic experiences have fully disclosed that so long as the cost of our borrowing and buying abroad exceeds the aggregate returns from our sales of Canadian products to purchasers abroad, we cannot maintain in Canada either stable tariff rates or a stabilized monetary policy."

In "Keeping her head" when others lost theirs, in avoiding the untried experiment, and in maintaining her sense of values and the stability of the pound with all the resources at her command, Great Britain had succeeded not only in setting herself firmly on the path to recovery, but had contributed toward setting others there also, he maintained.

Sir James Parr to Be High Commissioner

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Rt. Hon. Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, M.P., former Minister of Labor of Great Britain, speaking here under the auspices of the National Council of Education, declared some form of adjustment between the pound sterling and the United States dollar to establish stability in world markets and to free international trade must be achieved before full economic recovery would be possible.

In "Keeping her head" when others lost theirs, in avoiding the untried experiment, and in maintaining her sense of values and the stability of the pound with all the resources at her command, Great Britain had succeeded not only in setting herself firmly on the path to recovery, but had contributed toward setting others there also, he maintained.

Rural Credits Suggestion of Federal Commission Is to Come Before Legislature

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Nov. 14.—Some action on the Royal Banking Commission's report on the part of the Alberta legislature is foreseen by Premier J. E. Brownlee, who was a member of the commission.

The Premier said: "The probability is copies of the report will be obtained for use of members at the next session of the legislature. A committee of the House will be appointed to negotiate with us with a view to seeing if any recommendations should be made to the banking committee of the Dominion House.

"Undoubtedly some parts, such as those dealing with rural credits, affect an agricultural province like Alberta very directly. It may be desirable to make representations regarding them."

"At the same time, the committee will be given opportunity to consider proposals being prominently discussed in Alberta, such as the Douglas system of credit in particular. Great interest will be shown in the measures in these schemes, and the committee will have an opportunity to consider whether they are of any practicable value from a provincial standpoint."

REGGAEWAN OPINION

Regina, Nov. 14.—The two major features in the Royal Banking Commission's report, proposal for a central bank and recommendation for more adequate agricultural credits, are steps in the right direction, but some of the features of the central bank proposal do not go far enough, in the opinion of M. J. Coldwell, leader of the Saskatchewan Farmer-Labor Party.

"The majority report of the commission justifies the long agitation of the progressive forces of western Canada for a central bank, said Mr. Coldwell. "The recommendation that it shall be privately owned, however, is a distinct disappointment. The policy of such a bank should be controlled by a commission appointed by and directly responsible to Parliament."

Mussolini Memorandum Proposes Improvement in Countries' Trade Conditions

Associated Press

Rome, Nov. 14.—The problem impasse on Europe by the break-up of the Austro-Hungarian Empire seemed to-day to be moving toward a solution on the basis of the Mussolini memorandum on the Danubian states.

France's acceptance of Premier Mussolini's plan has gone a long way toward bringing the countries Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Jugoslavia, of a betterment of their economic situations.

The fundamental points of II Dupe's project are bilateral accords among the Danubian nations; preferential trade with the principal industrial states of Austria; the waiving by outside nations of their most-favored nation treatment rights if they have favorable trade terms toward these countries; and concessions by the states of part of their foreign markets to other nations if the latter grant the Danubian states preferential duties.

REPORT OF BANKING COMMISSION

The main recommendation of the banking commission reflects the trend of opinion for the establishment of a central bank in Canada, but it seems to have been designed as something of a compromise between those who wanted such an institution owned and controlled by the government and those who desired it to be a private utility, with a wide margin in favor of the second contention. It is not devised to meet the economic conditions of the moment except in certain limited and specific particulars.

The report recommends a bank whose capital is to be provided by the public with officers initially appointed by the government and subsequently elected by the stockholders. Essentially, however, it could evolve into a private establishment, since no doubt the majority of its stock could be acquired by the existing banks which could determine the character and personnel of its control and management.

But even with this prospect, we question if the proposal will be acceptable to the Canadian banks, since it would deprive them of certain powers which they now have. For instance, it would divert to the central bank the sole power to issue notes; it would give to that bank all governmental financing, which some of the present banks have been lucratively conducting for many years. It is significant that both Sir Thomas White of Toronto, and Mr. Beaupre Leman, prominent Quebec banker, who are members of the commission, do not endorse the recommendation but are opposed to the whole idea of a central bank for Canada.

Premier Brownlee of Alberta, another member of the commission, supported the principle of a central bank with the reservation that the capital should be subscribed by the government. Mr. Brownlee's reserved approval of the report no doubt may be attributed largely to the recommendation relative to provision of a more flexible system of credit for the agricultural industry.

There can be no difference of opinion over the need of such an institution for the purposes of international finance, since most of the Dominions have established central banks under various auspices with this object in view.

The chief bone of contention will be the ownership and control of a central bank in Canada, and around this a vigorous fight may be expected. Advocates of such an institution in this country under government ownership and control intend that it should serve a much broader purpose than the central bank the commission recommends. They contend that it should be the keystone of the country's credit structure and, as such, become a vital factor in our economic system; that it should facilitate not only the operations of the agricultural industry but of the whole industrial life of the Dominion. Hence, the report falls far short of their aspirations and will be subjected to a strong barrage of criticism. They will object to the proposed transfer to the central bank recommended by the commission of certain powers of control over the present banking system now possessed by the federal government under the Finance Act, and will contend that the recommendation actually will weaken government control of Canadian banking.

There appears to be a close analogy between the report of the banking commission and the circumstances of its appointment and inquiry, and the appointment, investigation and report of the commission on transportation several years ago. The commission on transportation was appointed mainly to save the Bennett government from reaching a decision over the deadlock between those who wanted an amalgamation of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. and those who were vigorously opposed to such a junction. The commission, it will be recalled, reported against any amalgamation but proposed a compromise in the shape of a board representative of both companies to insure better co-operation between them. The resultant measure in Parliament was still more of a compromise.

The banking commission was appointed to delay the decennial revision of the Bank Act which was due in the last parliamentary session. Criticism of our banking system—much of it ill-considered, irresponsible and unjustified—and demands for a central bank, caused the fear that the consideration by Parliament last spring of the Bank Act might produce a political crisis, and impelled the Ottawa government to postpone the revision with the appointment of a commission as a substitute in the hope that economic conditions in the meantime might improve sufficiently to allay the gathering storm. Like the report of the transportation commission, the report of the banking commission will first receive the soulful consideration of the government which, with a comparatively early election in sight, will present to Parliament something in the shape of a bill which will be designed to keep all sides in good humor, but which, we predict, will undergo an even more strenuous journey.

MEDICINE AND ANTI-SEMITISM

Writing in The Basle (Switzerland) Nationalzeitung, Dr. Lukatchewsky, a non-Jewish medical man, says that since the Jewish spirit is to be destroyed in every branch of life according to the doctrine of the Nazis, he is anxious to provide a medical guide, so that consistent anti-Semites should know what to avoid when they are ill.

For example, he warns that any Nazi who has social diseases must not allow himself to be cured by remedies discovered by the Jews Ehrlich, Wasserman and Neisser. A Nazi who has heart disease must not use digitalis, which comes from the Jew Ludwig Traube. If he has toothache, he will not use cocaine, or he will be benefiting by the work of a Jew, Solomon Stricker. Typhus must not be treated or he will have to get relief from the discoveries of the Jews Vidal and Weil. If he has a headache, he must shun pyramin and anti-pyrin (Spiro and Elegie). Anti-Semites who have convulsions must put up with them, for it was a Jew, Oscar Liebreich, who thought of chloral-hydrate. The same applies to psychic ailments; Freud is the father of psycho-analysis.

Anti-Semitic doctors, moreover, would have to jettison all discoveries and improvements brought about by Nobel prize men—Volzter, Baranaj, Otto Warber; the dermatologists Jadassohn, Bruno Bloch, Unna; the neurologists Mendel, Oppenheim, Kronacker, Benedix; the lung specialist Fraenkel, of the surgeon Israel, the anatomist Henle, and many others.

Such Chancellor Hitler and his followers should be profoundly thankful for the proposal which the non-Jew Lukatchewsky has made. It will put them on their guard. But perhaps the hundred per cent Aryan in pain will discreetly draw the veil over this medical guide—a case of "the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be."

VICTORIA'S CIVIC ANOMALY

Speaking to the Real Estate Board a few days ago, Mayor Leeming drew attention to Victoria's strange anomaly—it's good financial strength and its obvious physical weakness. He showed charts and graphs revealing the downward trend of population, the decreasing values of land, the city's debt, situation and other factors.

In connection with the financial strength of the corporation, the Mayor pointed out that although the civic budget in 1932 had to provide for expenditures well over $1,000,000 in excess of that required in the normal year of 1930, it was balanced in cash—with a tax collection per centage of eighty-two, the highest of any city in western Canada. The same financial stability was reflected in the rising price of the city's bonds. The six per cent issue which brought only 92.99 last year was recently quoted at 103.50. Advance collection of taxes this year, the largest on record, was a further indication. Mayor Leeming was naturally gratified to be able to remind his audience that the sinking fund investments were all in first-class bonds at a rate considerably higher than the four per cent basis upon which the sinking fund operates; again this year the fund would show a considerable surplus above requirements.

On the question of the city's physical weakness, the Mayor was not able to speak so optimistically. He took the figures for the sixty-year period from 1871 to 1931 to show that the population had jumped from 3,270 to 39,092. The last ten years had shown a jump of only a few hundred. He believed there was an actual shrinkage in the last few years as reflected by the school registration figures, which had dropped from 4,632 to 4,253 since 1928.

To add to the municipality's difficulties, the Mayor quite properly pointed out, is the constantly disappearing taxable value of land and the constantly shrinking value in improvements—where population is declining, or is at best in a static condition—making for a very uncertain source of revenue. This condition makes it imperative that other sources of revenue must be provided. We quote the Mayor on this aspect of the city's problems:

It must be obvious that the tremendous increase in the taxation burden cannot be continued for any length of time. In fact, it cannot be carried any further and some other form of revenue than taxes on land must be forthcoming. If the government finds itself unable to restore the so-called grants to the municipalities and also to remove some of the new impositions such as mothers' pensions, mental hospital charges and so forth, then we must look to it for revenues from some other sources, such as part of the gasoline tax, amusement tax and part of the income tax. It may be that the government will be able to make some contribution on account of Victoria being the capital of the province.

As Mayor Leeming suggests, municipal taxation has gone the limit in Victoria. Any further imposts would simply mean that a good deal of property now on the tax roll would revert—a condition to be avoided. It is to be hoped, therefore, that after the new government has got its bearings across James Bay it will be possible to devise ways and means of adjusting the financial relations between the province and the municipalities.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAYNO CHANGE
The Philadelphia Ledger

The United States would like to see this war account settled in a manner acceptable to the British. The problem has been the cause of considerable irritation. Its constant recurrence as an issue is not conducive to the best understanding between the two nations. If the British could devise some satisfactory way of wiping out this $4,800,000,000 obligation, the consummation would fit in admirably with American policy. The United States is waiting patiently for an offer in keeping with the idea of honest and square dealing which both countries uphold.

MARITIME UNION
The St. John Telegraph-Journal

Most people agree that we have too much government and that economies are possible, in the matter of representation and overhead, but do not regard that as the only trouble. If the people would get it clearly in their minds that all the money comes ultimately from their pockets and that they should not demand so much; and if it were made possible to spend public money without so much of it going as a reward for partisanship, we could get along very comfortably.

WHAT NEXT?
The New York Times

The obscurity which surrounds our own present currency policies is not only unfortunate and wholly alien to the traditions of our government, but in some of its aspects dangerous. There is no precedent in our history for a situation in which vital changes are imminent for the money standard, in which half a dozen conservative methods of procedure exist, ranging from conservative to sweeping radical, yet concerning which the American people have no plain indication of the government's intentions. It would be contrary to experience if such uncertainty, on a question so fundamental, did not chill the recent hopefulness of business circles.

is why you still have in the world the philosophic notion of Liberalism, which endures regardless of party labels. If you could get your political parties everywhere to correspond accurately to these deeper instincts, things would be a lot simpler and politics much clearer.

NATURE NOTE

THEY ARE at it again. The worms I mean. The children next door are at the worms and you can stop them. I had no sooner started to dig oak leaves into my perennial border when they both appeared with old tin cans, which they proceeded to fill with all the worms turned up by my shovel. They divided the worms equally, first one for the girl and then one for the boy, and worms were plentiful out this way at this time of the year, of luxuriant size and very sleek. They wiggle most delightfully when you hold them up between your fingers and squeeze them playfully.

I had forgotten all about the worms until the young man from next door complained to me to-day. He said I wished I wouldn't feed worms to his offspring, for he had discovered his son actually eating one of them. And besides, they had found two worms swimming in the bathtub next door and a curious smell convinced them that large numbers of worms had been pushed down the furnace registers and cremated, and their ashes sent from the city, from whom they expect such great things at her demise, had slid on something slippery in the back hall and was quite ill when she discovered that she had squashed a large and juicy one. Finally a small but energetic colony of worms was discovered in the sugar bin. The young man from next door seemed quite annoyed. I told him it wasn't my fault if his son were addicted to worms. When he grew abusive about it, I said it was probably hereditary.

THE SCRIPTURES

To the Editor:—Numerous references have been made recently in the press and in public meetings to Christianity as an organization and it may be of interest to review briefly just what these terms mean. For this, naturally, we turn to Scripture, and we find that a few years after the death of our Lord it is recorded that "the church was called Christians." We find in the New Testament the name Christians and then the name of these people and find that they had "believed and turned to the Lord," and from another passage we find the preaching they had believed was "that is He (Jesus of Nazareth) who was ordained of God to the Jews as quick to die and" that through His name whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sins.

The first recorded corporate action of these Christians, who constituted the church at Antioch, was one of charity, the second the sending of missionaries to the Gentiles. Here, then, we have an illustration of the faith and practice of the early Christian church. And from this we gather that a Christian is not one who happens to be born in a Christian country, neither is he one who believes in the name of Christ, nor is he one who follows the customs of the church, nor is he one who believes in the God of the church, nor is he one who practices the commandments of the church, nor is he one who believes in the resurrection of the dead, and "that through His name whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sins."

The general tenor of the New Testament teaching concerning Christianity and its principles is to encourage the individual to live for Christ, to glorify the Father, for which the present is shown to be merely preparatory. Yet the individual Christian is laid under strict injunctions as to his manner of living which may be summed up as love as the law, life as the truth, love worth more to us than to his neighbor, therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

We are not taught that the Christian church will reform the world. The commission to the church is "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel, but we are not sent to judge the world; but to convert the Gentiles." The sealing schooner Doris Seward, according to report sent last night, was becalmed, so the Indians that have been out in her hunting took to their canoes and returned to their villages. They say the schooner had a catch of 560 skins.

MODERN, EFFICIENT BANKING SERVICE
the Outcome of 116 Years' Successful Operation

WOULD REPORT TO ELECTORS

Open Forum Promised by Dr. Davies if Elected
Would Foil Employers Evading Minimum Wage Act

Declaring himself a man who would give the people true representation and who would be willing to report to the electors regularly at open forum if elected, Dr. Clem. Davies yesterday evening continued his election appeal as an independent candidate in Victoria riding, before nearly 700 persons at the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Davies flayed party politics and his supporting speakers cited instances where, they claimed, the people had not been given fair treatment and urged the election of independents to do away with this type of bad government.

Captain Harry Thain was the chairman and other speakers were Harry Owen, straight Labor candidate, and Captain R. F. Matheson, who spoke in favor of Dr. Davies.

One of the advantages of the fact that the slogan had been lengthened has been the educating of the people, Dr. Davies said. He did not intend to stop this education if he were elected; and did not intend to join a deaf and dumb society as some of the members appeared to do.

If elected he proposed to hold regular meetings of the citizens in order to obtain a well-informed view of public opinion. Such meetings would form a clearing house for political thoughts, and would act as an anecdote to vested interests receiving undue benefit from party politics. He predicted a live and thrilling interest in politics would be stimulated by these meetings.

TRUE DEMOCRACY

These meetings would become tribunes of the electors and followed along the lines of the public forums of ancient Greece. The public would give the electors the feeling that they really had something to say about government.

In the past the opposition had been as deep in the mire as the government had been in the mud, and Dr. Davies intended to see that there was no secret regarding government matters.

He promised to look after the interests of the taxpayers even although he would be a member of the opposition.

PREVENT ECONOMY

He believed in prudent economy, but condemned economy among hospitals, old men and women, and in other social service branches. He stressed the need of the team in the Minimum Wage Act, and was in favor of jailing any employer who would not abide by the act. He would try and stop the infamous system of apprenticeship, he said.

He advocated a thorough investigation of relief, and believed relief labor should be employed on the public works programme. He stressed the urgent need for a road programme on Vancouver Island.

Reviewing provincial finances, Dr. Davies said that if it were not possible to have a provincial bank or for the province to issue notes or currency, then he would advise the Minister of Finance to make the thirty-two millionaires of British Columbia and offer to them the opportunity of investing their money in human beings, 150,000 of whom are holding out every year in British Columbia for relief. He paralleled such a proposal with the conference which Lloyd George called during the war with the captains of industry.

COULD ELIMINATE UNEMPLOYMENT

The more of these men could be used to eliminate unemployment in this province, Dr. Davies said.

"What security would these men have you ask?" said the speaker. "Not much I admit, but how much security has anyone who is holding C.P.R. or any other stock got these days, while there are thousands on relief."

It has been estimated that there are 7,000,000 bicycle riders in Great Britain.

SOOKE

The Remembrance Day service, under the auspices of the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion was conducted at the cenotaph Saturday morning commencing at 10:45 by Rev. E. F. Church, Victoria. A large number of residents turned out and approximately 1,500 people attended the service. The Otter Point relief camp paraded to the cenotaph for the ceremony. They were piped by Pipe-Major W. Wishart. The two minutes silence, the sounding of the "Last Post," the "Reveille" and the singing of "God Save the King" closed the service. Wreaths were placed on the memorial tablet which is located in the center of the district as well as in private cemeteries. Following the service the Sooke Legion acted as hosts to all ex-service men of the district in the Sooke Hall, where refreshments and cigarettes were served.

The Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion B.S.F. held a general meeting in the Sooke Hall Thursday evening with Capt. F. W. deP. Taylor in the chair. The report of the poppy sales under the management of Comrade A. E. Constant proved satisfactory. Arrangements were made to give a New Year's dance in the Sooke Hall. Tombola prizes will be drawn for during the New Year's dance.

The basketball games were staged in Charter's Hall Saturday evening under the auspices of the Sooke Athletic Association. The first game commenced at 7:30 o'clock and was played between Bob Whyte's girls and the local girls, the Victoria girls winning $6 to $8. By 9:30 to 10:30 the Sooke team beat the seniors of the Foundation Service. The score of the junior game was in favor of the local team by a five basket lead. A dance followed the game.

PROFIT-MAKING MONOPOLY

The resolution follows: "Whereas by Dominion charter we have done away with the management of the money system of Canada to bankers as a private profit-making monopoly, and whereas the credit of the nation should be the property of the nation, and whereas the banks have failed in the present economic crisis in the management of money and credit, thereby crippling industry, curtailing employment and the natural circulation of money."

"Therefore be it resolved that we favor complete control of currency issues by the Dominion Government through the establishment of a national central bank.

In the discussion which followed, Mrs. J. D. Gordon and Mrs. Stuart Anderson spoke in favor of the national central bank. Mrs. Gordon recalling that in the early days of the war legitimate enterprises at home were strangled by the arbitrary action of the privately-owned banks withholding financial support.

Prior to the presentation of her report, Mrs. White gave an interesting report in answer to the questionnaire on banking conditions received at the last meeting from the national convention of the committee on taxation. She reviewed the present banking situation, defined the finance act in its relation to the federal government and spoke of the functions of the ten charter banks and their powers.

The federal and provincial governments were at a disadvantage under the system owing to the high rates of interest charged on their borrowings, a disadvantage which would be removed under a national central banking system, she claimed. Mrs. White quoted from Professor Creighton's book, "Central Banking in Canada" in support of her conclusions.

It is not good enough to say that a central bank will cover our need, nor to copy the Bank of England or the Federal Reserve System of the U.S.A. for even that bank is found too rigid and the personnel unable to decide on policy. What is needed is a government-owned, national central bank that would function not only as a bankers' bank, but as a people's bank—a bank's bank to advance short term loans in time of shortage and to issue legal tender notes; a people's bank to control money and credit situation in the interests of the people rather than for the profit of shareholders of private banks," she concluded.

CHILD PRODIGY THRILLS CRITICS

Eight-year-old Girl Pianist Astonishes New York

New York, Nov. 14.—Music critics told in superlatives of-day the story of eight-year-old Ruth Szenyczak's Town Hall piano recital.

"A musical phenomenon," and "this amazing child" were expressions used by The Herald-Tribune critic in reporting the little California girl's performance.

"One went to Town Hall last night prepared for disappointment, and came away astounded," The Herald-Tribune added.

"What fire!" said The New York Times, devoting nearly a column to the Sacramento-born prodigy whom hands, barely adequate to span a octave, raced through a programme of Bach, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Chopin.

of Mrs. Grace R. Pooler's
Home Before Auction

Hundreds of Victorians visited the home of Mrs. Grace R. Pooler, at 1337 Rockland Avenue, yesterday afternoon, to take advantage of the special preview of the valuable imported furnishings and furnishings which will be sold by auction on Thursday and Friday, by Maynard & Sons.

The great halls and rooms of the home were crowded with visitors during the entire afternoon, many of them seeing for the first time only the most beautiful collections of china, glassware, paintings and engravings, rugs and furniture in Victoria.

MOTHER! don't experiment with your Child's Cold

Rub on
VICK'S VAPORUB
the proved way of relieving colds

For the minute you apply Vick's VapoRub over throat and chest it goes right to work to fight a cold—two ways at once—by Stimulation and Inhalation. Through the skin, it acts like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled direct to irritated air-passages. All night long, it works to help nature "throw off" the cold.

Ideal for Children's Colds.

Being externally applied, VapoRub avoids the risks of those digestive upsets that so often come from constant dosing. It can be used freely, and as often as needed, even on the youngest child. And it's just as good for adults.

DISGRACEFUL SCENES AT TEXAS GUINAN'S GRAVE

Two Thousand Hysterical Women Fight Police to Secure Flowers; Vault Stripped of Tributes

CANADIAN PRESS

White Plains, N.Y., Nov. 14.—Texas Guinan, queen of the night clubs, lay at rest to-day in Gate of Heaven Cemetery.

Of the thousands of flowers that lined the casket, none had been laid. They were snatched away Sunday by a hysterical mob of 2,000 women who rushed a receiving vault and carried them away as mementoes.

A Broadway funeral parlor was jammed with stage folk, writers, lawyers, press agents and others for the services.

White Plains, N.Y., Nov. 14.—Only a handful of torn ribbons and lost hairpins lie on the grave of Texas Guinan.

Esquimalt I.O.D.E. To Hold Shower Of Baby Clothes

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED
Your Baby and Mine

The Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.D.E., met yesterday afternoon at the residence of Miss David Miller, 824 McClure Street, the regent. Mrs. F. R. Wright, giving a full account of the chapter's semi-annual provincial meeting held recently at Nanaimo, at which she presided. A group of members represented the chapter. In this connection a vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Ernest Eve, who had so capably taken charge of transportation arrangements.

WAKEUP.

Mr. D. X. asks so many questions which are typical of the young mother that her letter seems pertinent to print. Her baby is one and one-half months old and weighs seventeen ounces of milk, eleven ounces of water and six tablespoonsful of maltose in six bottles.

The chapter will send a mother's gift toward the parcel which the Municipal Chapter is collecting for the Peace River.

"When should the baby stop using small nipples?" this mother asks. "He has difficulty using the larger ones. What temperature should his sleeping room be? My mother says he is too warm in the morning and keeps him awake. When should he be put on the porch in rainy weather if the rain does not strike him? Recently he has started waking at 4 p.m., cries and then goes back to sleep. I do not change him all night because his room is so cold.

"How do you keep him warm in the morning and keep him in for an hour or two after he has bathed and then take him outdoors. He always wakes up. What is a better plan? How soon should a baby sit up and be trained to the stool? In addition to his milk formula he gets two teaspoonsful of cod liver oil and one-half ounce of tomato juice."

CHANCE FEEDING TIME.

The weight is very large, and the hours of feeding closer than necessary. Your baby should not need food any earlier than 6-10-3-4 and once at night.

It is probable that if baby sleeps all night he is not cold. If he awakes, he may be.

Baby's feet and hands will be warm when he is warm, and a sleeping bag is essential in a cold room. Baby should be changed when he wakes. It would be much more sensible to put on hood and warm clothes after his bath and open the windows of his crib. If he wakes, put him in his crib in his own crib. Why move him? He can be aired thus every day in the house or taken out for an hour in the warmest portion of the day. The small nipples need not be changed to larger ones.

Please send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for "Normal Development of the Baby" and "Teaching in Cleanly Habits." These leaflets discuss what to expect of your baby during the first year and how to go about insuring good toilet habits.

OUT OF FOLLIES

ESCORT STOLE HER FUR COAT

But Court Dismisses Action
Brought by Baltimore
Woman

Associated Press

Baltimore, Nov. 14.—The last dancer left the roof garden, Miss Mildred Jones discovered two things:

First, her escort, Phillip De Castro, had taken his leave, and, second, so had her fur coat, her gloves and her hat.

By way of impressing Miss Jones with the fact he was still a one-woman man, De Castro said, he departed with her apparent. He thought her father would come for the clothing and he could explain. Instead, the police arrived.

The judge observed: "I don't think this case is worthy any further hearing."

And, with that, De Castro took another hasty leave.

FORGOT TO ASK GUEST OF HONOR

New York, Nov. 14.—The most amusing tea of the week was that held at the Park Lane by women of the press for Anna Louise Strong, managing editor of the Moscow News, only English-printed newspaper in Russia. A nice group of guests gathered about chattering, waiting. Strong did not show. Finally one guest gave what was a terrible start, said: "My goodness, do you know that I completely forgot to tell Miss Strong that the tea was this afternoon?"

Now, here's a "Follies" girl who already has made good before setting foot in a movie studio. She's Peggy Fears, New York's only woman theatrical producer. She just announced that she has signed a contract to appear in two pictures being written—especially for her.

Dress Rehearsal Held of "The Young King," to Be Presented To-night

The Association of St. Ann's former pupils could have chosen no more beautiful medium through which to express their loyalty to their Alma Mater in this the Diamond Jubilee year of the Sisters of St. Ann, than the presentation by them this evening and Wednesday evening, of Oscar Wilde's pageant, "The Young King," to be presented to-night.

For no sooner had Miss Guinan's coffin been lodged in the hillside vault than a hysterical mob of 2,000 women swept aside the dozen policemen guarding the vault and fought frantically to get an orchid, a chrysanthemum or a rose. When they had gone not a flower remained—only a few cards of remembrance the sorrows of which had seemed unimportant, a few bits of ribbon and some hairpins lost in the struggle.

Man With a Thousand Masks

CHAPTER XXIII

"I asked you not to come," she said reproachfully.

"I'm sorry you can't always have it your own way," he remarked cheerfully. "In any case, I've got something to tell you. I had rather a dust-up last night with Templeton."

"Last night? But I don't understand." For some reason she seemed completely at sea.

"Templeton must have had words—hard words. He nodded toward the door that led to the barrister's private room. "In there!"

"But—but Sir Richard is out of town! He went down to his country place yesterday afternoon, and said he wouldn't be back until lunch time to-day. You must be mistaken."

"He was here last night," said Alan. "for he gave me a thundering good dressing down. He may have gone back to the country again, but he was certainly in this hotel at 11:30 last night."

Elizabeth was still looking puzzled, and Alan broke out with a laugh.

"You're thinking what the row was about? He ticked me off for leaving unprotected females astray. In other words, taking you out to dinner. More than that, he said if you went with me again he'd sack you on the spot. Scarcely sounds like a little ray of sunshine, does it? But that isn't all. He failed to make me promise that I never say a word again."

"I promised all right—that is, to see you as often as I possibly could!"

Alan sat on the arm of a chair and looked across at Elizabeth. He had mentioned the interview to her only because he wanted her to know. The physician himself would do so, and he had deliberately made light of it, hoping that Elizabeth would not take it too deeply to heart. But her expression had not altered with his flippant talk; she sat staring gloomily at the keys of her typewriting machine.

"I think it will be better if we do as Sir Richard says," he said quietly.

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes." She drew in a quick breath. "And why should I never see you again?" he pressed.

"Because—Not if Sir Richard doesn't wish it—I don't!"

Alan looked at her head and shoulders. His long lashes veiled his eyes, and he could see the lurking fire in them.

"Daren't?" He couldn't repress a chuckle of laughter. "My dear girl."

Then he broke off. The exact relations between Sir Richard Templeton and his secretary had been a puzzle to him, and his obvious desire to go against his wishes did not tend to clear up the question. But it was a delicate matter to probe. He got to his feet.

"Elizabeth, I want to make this perfectly plain. All the Templetons in the world won't prevent me seeing you as often as I can. That is one thing that I can't do, I'm doing that!"

She did not look up; the long lashes were again over her dark eyes.

"Only one thing," he repeated. "And that is when you tell me you've got no more use for my friendship!"

The color had faded from her lips; she did not speak.

"See the world and I'll clear out."

Her voice quivered.

For the first time she met his glance, and during the fraction of a second her eyes trembled.

"But why should you want my—" friendship? It can only mean trouble for us both."

"You believe that?" he asked in a low voice. "I don't! I don't believe in looking for trouble—though somehow I think your hands are full enough of it already. He drew nearer to her.

"More than that. I have an idea you may need all the friends you've got one day very soon."

She looked away quickly, and when she spoke again her voice was low.

"What can be your interest in me? You know nothing about me—notting!"

"My interest in you—" Alan faltered. He found his reply difficult to put into words. He knew, without any question, that Sir Richard was right. He had acknowledged it to himself during his long tramp through London streets the previous afternoon. He was sure of himself—but could he be certain of her? Until he knew her feelings toward him he could not trust himself to speak. It might ruin everything. Some invisible barrier seemed to stand between them.

He sprang quickly up and down the room, then suddenly he stopped and held out his hand to her.

"I've already offered you my friend-ship, Elizabeth."

The answer, when it came, was a quick, impulsive movement. She put her hand in his, and her fingers lay over his. Her gaze was fixed and sweet, the fragrance of her, her exquisite beauty, sent his heart to his throat, and his resolution weakened.

In another moment his arms would have been around her—but all the more pleasant to him was the look of admiration in her eyes. "I'm convinced he's living in this hotel to spy on—somebody."

A flush rose to Elizabeth's cheek, and she bit her lips.

"I'm sure you are wrong, Sir Rich-ard."

"Sure? Of course you are!" he said with the suspicion of a sneer. "I'd be surprised if you weren't. This tall fellow Glimour has made himself extremely pleasant to you. No doubt he is a charming fellow—but all the more dangerous! I'm convinced he's living in this hotel to spy on—somebody."

Elizabeth was still looking puzzled, and Alan broke out with a laugh.

"You're thinking what the row was about? He ticked me off for leaving unprotected females astray. In other words, taking you out to dinner. More than that, he said if you went with me again he'd sack you on the spot. Scarcely sounds like a little ray of sunshine, does it? But that isn't all. to his voice that made her glance at him apprehensively. "You admitted to Inspector Tripp in this room that you are acquainted with Mr. Glimour, and intend to be frank with your Elizabeth. You astounded me by saying that you went out for the evening with this man—a perfect stranger."

"It is true," returned Elizabeth.

"I know it," said Templeton sharply.

"I was compelled to come back from the country for an hour or two last night, and I met Mr. Glimour. I protested to him in the strongest terms. I repeat my protest to you. Is it possible that you have not realized the confidential nature of your work with me?"

CAPITAL THEATRE

It has been said that Noel Coward, the theatre's most versatile playwright, does not show off by his versatility.

"Bitter Sweet" was originally an operetta. Florenz Ziegfeld presented it elsewhere, then the New York stage and seasons ago with Evelyn Laye in the leading role. Peggy Wood played it for two years in London. This picture, incidentally, is the first thing that ever bore Mr. Ziegfeld's name to appear before the public, in any form, since his death over a year ago.

It is versatility which shows him off.

Moviemakers found him sophisticated, satirical and farcical in "Private Lives" and powerful, dramatic and epochal in "Cavalcade." Now, in "Bitter Sweet," a United Artists release showing to-day at the Capitol Theatre, he is frankly and delightfully sentimental.

TO EDUCATE FOR PEACE

Human Intelligence Only Can Put World Right, Says Mrs. A. E. Zimmern

Suggests Closer Collaboration Between British Commonwealth, France and U.S.

"Human intelligence, properly applied to the solution of its problems, is the only sure way of putting the world to rights," said Mrs. A. E. Zimmern, wife of the noted Oxford University professor of international relations, in giving her views on world affairs in an interview at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Dr. Zimmern, who is equally famous as her husband as a speaker, has been talking about world conditions from the psychological angle. She has been addressing women's organizations all across the country.

POLITICAL ASYLUM

"We are in a big political asylum; the world has gone mad," declared Mrs. Zimmern. She asserted there was too much information in the world and too little thought given to applying reason and direction to the right channels.

"The old system of alliances cannot work. The people must be educated in the right way of thinking—in the interests of peace."

Mrs. Zimmern believes that close collaboration between the nations forming the British Commonwealth, Canada and the United States, would do much to ensure the progress of the world and dispel clouds of war.

With such collaboration, she said, no nation would be able to assert itself. Mrs. Zimmern, who is a Frenchwoman by birth, remarked that the love of the British people, but in her opinion, their viewpoint on the European situation differed from that of the French.

The British people do not understand the psychology of the French people. They treat us more as a sport. Maybe they are too sentimental. They can't get all the information to react the same way," Mrs. Zimmern remarked.

"We have got to educate the people to be more tolerant."

Mrs. Zimmern, speaking of her tour through this country, said: "I adore the Canadians, they are the warmest-hearted people in the world."

She added that Canada had a key position for the maintenance of the peace of the world. Canada, she thought, was somewhat timid about assuming its position in world affairs. So it was with the United States. "The time has passed when it is possible to separate the problems of America and the rest of the world," she said.

Mrs. Zimmern addressed the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel this afternoon.

MARKET NOTES

The tomato market has taken a turn for the higher, and the retail price now averages 18¢ per pound for the bushel product.

A shipment of apples reached Victoria this morning from the Okanagan. These include Jonathans, Spies, Waggers and Delicious.

Shipments expected next Thursday include bananas and the first new season load of Smyrna figs.

Daily shipments of lettuce are being received from the States, after which the local supply.

A cargo of Japanese oranges is expected November 22.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The usual monthly general meeting of Naval Veterans' Branch No. 42 of the Canadian Legion will be held in the clubrooms on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

There will be a C.C.P. meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the North Ward School at which the four Victoria C.C.P. candidates will speak. Questions will be asked.

The Kiwanis Tuberculosis Seal campaign will be launched at a meeting to be held Friday night at Phinney's showroom at 8 o'clock. Frank Jordan announced at the luncheon to-day.

Fifteen sales have been made to private buyers at the city tax sale, so far, realizing a total of $3,659.84 on up-to-date prices. Several pieces of furniture have been taken in by the city.

Mr. Clem Davies, independent candidate, will address a meeting in the South Park school at 8 o'clock to-night. The courtesy of the platform will be extended to Harry Owen, Labor candidate.

Several members of the Kiwanis Club have volunteered their services to serve meals at Sunshine Inn for two hours every Sunday for the next two months. The request was made by Vic Henderson on behalf of the inn.

Ruth Buckle Simpson was awarded a decree absolute of divorce from Edward Alexander Simpson in a judgment given by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson in the Supreme Court to-day. Stuart Henderson appeared as her counsel.

Councillor Robert A. Anderson, senior member of Esquimalt's governing body, and probably the man who possesses the longest term of service to any one municipality in Greater Victoria, will resign his seat on the Esquimalt Council which he has held for twenty-one years and will seek the post of chief magistrate of the municipality in the municipal elections next January.

This announcement was made by the councillor yesterday evening when he was asked to sit as a member of this year's court of revision of the voters list but declined in view of the fact that he was to be a candidate in the next election. It is the general practice to have members of the council who are continuing their term sit in the court.

REEVES PAY TRIBUTE

"It would be a fitting mark of recognition of the valuable services which Councillor Anderson has rendered to Esquimalt if he should be allowed to take over the office as reeve by acclamation," declared Reeve Albert, who followed Councillor Anderson's announcement with a statement to the effect that he could not be a candidate for re-election next year.

Councillor Thomas Gedford commented: "There is no better man on the council fitted for the reeveship." Councillor Anderson first entered Esquimalt public life in 1904 when he was elected to the school board. He served as a trustee for eight years, being re-elected in his first attempt to gain a seat on the council in 1912. Since that date, with the exception of the 1924-25 term, when he retired for a rest, Councillor Anderson has held office continually.

WORKS CHAIRMAN FOR YEARS

For many years Councillor Anderson's post on the council has been chairman of the works committee. In this capacity the council has regarded him as an expert authority and during his many years of service he has earned the respect of every member of the engineer's department.

The resignation of Mr. Anderson from the works committee was voted by acclamation in Esquimalt at the next election for a single term on the council.

who was to-day elected by acclamation to the Oak Bay School Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Ridgeway R. Wilson, who has moved to Vancouver. No other nomination was filed today with returning Officer E. F. Blane and at 2 o'clock Mr. Walker's election was announced. He will serve the term of Mr. Wilson's term, which will end January, 1934.

The coming of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra yesterday evening to the Royal Victoria Theatre for the first time in its short but brilliant history, must be regarded as more than a friendly gesture. The Capital City, as it does on such occasions, again turned out en masse to greet conductor and players. Scores have more enthusiastic reception.

Blue Ribbons Hand Province Cagers a Surprise Packet

Local Champions Look Good for Another B.C. Championship

Northwestern Hockey League Will Raise Curtain This Week

VANCOUVER PROVINCE basketballers, class of Al Hardy's Burrard League, came to town over the weekend and what a surprise the Mainland boys received when they hooked up with the Victoria Blue Ribbons in the Victoria High School gym on Saturday evening. The newspaper quintette under the leadership of the wily Harvey McIntyre and elongated Jack Purves, rated the premier tip-off man in Mainland cage circles, were played to a standstill by the Victoria champions, who, after a 31 to 18 setback. From the talk that was going around after the game the Province lads apparently came to Victoria with the intention of showing the Ribbons just how the game should be played. As a matter of fact when they stepped on the floor cockiness was written all over their faces but after the first ten minutes it was a different story.

After the Ribbons won the Canadian championship last winter, a number of the wise ones in Vancouver talked loudly and often that the local boys were just as good as the Windsor defeated the Ribbons in Vancouver, in the exhibition game following the final, experts came back with: "I told you so." At the beginning of the present season when the Ribbons were forced to rebuild their club owing to the departure of Maxine Parker, a large number of both Vancouver and Victoria fans predicted the Ribbons were washed up as a championship outfit. But in the last two weeks the Dominion titleholders have beaten Victoria at home and triumphed over the Province squad. Not such a bad showing for a team that was said to be through.

One of the interesting points of Saturday's game was the fact that the great Purves was held to two points. He was outjumped at center by Art Chapman and given his rough time that he had to leave the floor halfway through the first half in order to gain a breather. Johnny Craig had a big night against the Province and his display seems to be faster this year than last. And Doug Peden, a newcomer to the championship club this season, turned in his best performance this year and was a valuable substitute for Joe Ross. Don't be surprised if the Ribbons win the B.C. championship again.

Everything seems to be pretty well set to usher in the first season of the Northwestern Provincial Hockey League this week. From all the cities represented—Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, Calgary and Edmonton, it is reported that the backers of the teams are all satisfied with the outlook. In the western league that operated last season, Edmonton had a particularly good season, playing to the largest crowds in the circuit, while Calgary, with the canny Lloyd Turner at the helm, did reasonably well.

Already this season keen interest has been displayed by the fans of both Alberta cities and with the likelihood of strength and plenty of the old-time rivalry there little reason to doubt that Guy Patrick's Vancouver Lions will turn out to have "the goods," and with the experienced hockey men like Frank Foyston and Bobby Rose in charge of the Seattle and Portland teams respectively, the caliber of the play is of the highest. Patrick will have quite a good springing of the players who were with Kenny Mackenzie's Regina club last year. Weather conditions permitting the curtain will be raised at Edmonton on Thursday night with Calgary providing the opposition. Two days later the two clubs will do double duty, both Alberta teams will journey to the coast, Edmonton displaying their wares before Seattle fans on November 20 and Calgary at Vancouver the same night.

Japanese Tennis Champion Beaten

Osaka, Japan, Nov. 14.—Two little known university students to-day won their way to the final round of the Japanese national tennis championships.

Mitsue Nishimura, student at Keio, defeated the defending titleholder and Davis Cup star, Ryosuke Numoi, 6-8, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, in one semi-final and Jiro Fujikura, who upset the Davis Cup veterans, the Soh. In the quarterfinals, won his final match with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2 victory over Jiro Yamagishi, Keio. Fujikura is at Meiji University.

PROPOSE OWN RULING GROUPS

Amateur Union to Consider National Committee for Track and Field

Boxing and Wrestling May Also be Placed Under Separate National Committee.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Formation of separate national committees to govern boxing and wrestling and track and field events will be among the more important issues to be debated at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada here November 16, 17 and 18.

Organization of these two committees as well as appointment of a committee on British Empire Games and another on the 1936 Olympic Games, are included in notices to the A.A.U. announced to-day by James I. Morkin, a director.

A motion from British Columbia branch proposes "formation of a national governing body of track and field and boxing and of a national governing body of boxing and wrestling." Recommendations along the same lines but confined to branches within the union will be submitted by the City. With Hood in goal for them the Wests have strengthened their back division and look like serious challengers to second place.

Last week the Thistles put up a second fight in gaining a 1 to 1 deadlock with Esquimalt, while the Wests turned in a 4 to 1 victory over the City. With Hood in goal for them the Wests have strengthened their back division and look like serious challengers to second place.

FEATURE GAME

The feature match of the day should be the Wests-Thistles match. The greenshirts scored a pair of victories over the Saanich eleven in the first half and will be anxious to make it three in a row. The last match between the Wests and Thistles was a farce when the latter fielded a make-shift team to regular players failing to turn out.

PLAYERS ON CARPET

While the league bosses refuse to make any announcement it has been learned that three players from the second division will be up on the carpet to-morrow evening. They are "Scotty" Robinson, Victoria West; Tommy Smith, Victoria City, and Freddie Price, Saanich Thistles. Robinson was referred by a referee for ungentlemanly conduct in a match between the Wests and Esquimalt, while Smith and Price were sent off the field for fighting. It is understood that the managers of the first division teams will be up before the board.

Election of officers and consideration

also on the agenda.

QUAKERS WILL TOUR EUROPE

Montreal Will Seek Major Ball Franchise

Holders of Western Canada Hockey Title Plan Extensive Trip

Saskatoon, Nov. 14.—Definite assurance Saskatoon Quakers, western Canada amateur hockey champions, would tour Europe this winter was given by club officials to-day.

Quakers plan to sail from Halifax January 10. They have booked games at Oslo, Stockholm, Berlin, Warsaw, Prague, Budweis, Budapest, Vienna, Paris, London, Glasgow, Birmingham and Milan where they will represent Canada in the international series for the world title.

Before sailing the club expects to play exhibition games in various cities in Ontario, Quebec and Maritime provinces. Twelve players and a manager will make the trip.

ESQUIMALT TO TAKE ON CITY

Two Matches in Second Division; Players on Carpet at Meeting To-morrow

Teams in the first division of the Victoria Coast Football League will open the second half of their league schedule on Saturday afternoon with a pair of matches. Esquimalt, winners of the first half championship, will engage Victoria City at the Heywood Avenue grounds with T. M. Robb as referee. Saanich Thistles and Victoria West, who finished in a tie for second place, will clash at Lower Beacon Hill, with Dave Swan in charge.

The second division fixtures will bring together Victoria City and Esquimalt at Hampton Road with G. McLean as referee. The whistle and the Wests and Thistles at Upper Beacon Hill with Ralph Alcock as referee.

Robinson Far Ahead Of Football Scorers

Driving through for three goals against Victoria City on Saturday afternoon, "Scotty" Robinson, dynamic centre-forward of the Victoria West eleven, moved into a commanding lead of the scores in the first division of the Victoria Coast Football League. With the first half of the league schedule completed Robinson has scored six goals and given two assists for a total of sixteen points.

Robinson has just double the amount of points boasted by Alex McMillan, Victoria City, and Tommy Musgrave, Victoria West, who are bracketed in second place, each with eight points. McMillan and Musgrave each scored a goal on Saturday.

With the end of the first half Wally Howe, Saanich Thistles, is setting the pace for the goalies with seven goals scored against him in six games. Louis De Costa, Esquimalt, is close behind with one more goal for as many matches.

Last Year One of Most Successful in History of Women's Athletic Federation

President Makes Plea for National Football Organization; Finances Sound

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—The last year has been one of the most successful in the history of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation. Mrs. J. B. Foster, Calgary, president, told delegates attending the eighth annual convention of that body here yesterday.

During the last year, three Dominion championships had been held, Mrs. Foster said, track and field, hockey and basketball. She urged all branches to take an interest in ice hockey and made a plea for a national softball organization.

Pointing to the Edmonton Grads as shining examples of what women can accomplish in the athletic world, she said that unless why they succeed could not be equalled in the field of ice hockey and softball.

Miss Ann Clark, Vancouver, secretary, reported the federation's finances sound.

Nearly 150 Entries Received for Victoria School's Event at Crystal Garden

TITLES WILL BE DEFENDED

Ivor Fuller and Kewpie Unsworth Holders of Boys' and Girls' Honors

Nearly 150 young athletes of Victoria High School on Friday evening will compete in the annual school swimming gala to be held at the Crystal Garden, commencing at 7:15 o'clock. The complete list of entries was announced yesterday by physical directors Miss Mona Miller and W. A. Roper, and some of the keenest competition witnessed in the last few years of the event is anticipated.

Ivor Fuller and Kewpie Unsworth, last year's winners in the boys' and girls' events, will both defend their 1932 titles. Some of their stiffest opposition is expected from B. Noel and Helen Unsworth.

Following are the officials for the meet: Mr. Dilworth, referee; George H. Deane, H. L. Smith, starters; C. L. Campbell, announcer; A. McKinnon and Mrs. M. Steel, judging judges; J. M. Mathews, referee; Miss Blanche Alward, B. Heywood and W. A. Roper, stewards; and W. H. Webber, H. Cumberbatch, Captain A. Boyd and N. Allen, judges.

The list of entries follows:

(By C. M. Oliver & Co. Ltd.)

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 14.—Profit-taking which entered the market in the late stages of to-day's session of Montreal Stock Exchange reduced early gains and converted a large number into losses, but the general list closed with an irregular, though trend was downward at the final hour.

International Nickel dropped to 20.50 off 20 cents. Consolidated Smelters held a gain of 1½ points at 134. Both the Canadian Industrial Alcohol issues closed lower, the "A" shares off 1½ and "B" shares 1½ at 14½. Brazilian lost ½ at 11½.

Good Support With Large Export Sales Sends Wheat Higher

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Good support, engendered by large export sales of Canadian wheat, gave wheat prices a steady, though not strong, upward movement to-day, until final quotations compared with the previous close, showed a gain of only ½ to ¾ cent.

November wheat finished at 65¢, December 64½, May 68½ and July 69½ cents. Trade was moderately active throughout.

At the high points, prices showed an advancing tendency, two factors being probably—wheat unencumbered, and the gain was more than halved. Export business was estimated between 750,000 and 1,000,000 bushels.

The sharp upturn in sterling more than offset slight easiness at Liverpool.

Wife Who Is Divorcing Husband for Being Slovenly Housekeeper Voices All the Age-old Masculine Complaints—Which Only Proves That Swapping Jobs Gives Other's Point of View

IT IS sadly true that when we put ourselves in the other fellow's place we generally discover that we do just as he does. In witness whereof take the case of the woman who has just applied for a divorce from her husband because he was a shiftless and sloppy housekeeper and failed to make a comfortable home for her.

It seems, when this exceedingly modern young couple were married last spring, that a contract was drawn up between them whereby it was agreed that the wife was to go out and earn the living while the husband stayed at home and did the housework. He fulfilled his part of the bargain by producing fairly good meals, but when it came to cleaning up he was a lamentable flop. He did not sweep under the beds nor dust the radio and when his poor tired wife came home at night after a hard day's work and found everything at sixes and sevens and the sink full of spoiled dishes, she said to him just the things that innumerable husbands have said to their wives under similar circumstances:

Thus trouble began over had housekeeping, as it has in millions of other homes, for it makes no difference whether the love bird is a hen or a cock, he, she or it has to have a comfortable place to roost in order to keep on cooing. Otherwise raucous squawks rend the air.

This little incident, however, calls our attention to how regrettable is the fact that husbands and wives cannot swap jobs occasionally, for if they could they would not only have far more patience with each other, but they would give different performances themselves.

Most women, for instance, are firmly convinced that their husbands have got the soft end of the trade. They think that working in a store or factory or office is a perfect cinch compared to doing housework, and they picture their husbands as living a life of gay adventure that consists mostly of holding mysterious conferences and eating lingering lunches and listening to and telling good stories and making agreeable contracts with pleasant people. That is the reason that when their husbands complain of being tired of an evening and when they never want to dress up and go out to places of amusement, the wives regard it as an abit and get peevish over it and consider their husbands as grouchies.

But let a woman work in an office all day herself. Let her be the head of her own business and torn with anxiety about how she is to pay her note in the bank and meet competition or let her be an employee and tremble for the safety of her job. Let her spend her time dealing with cranky and unreasonable clients or customers or putting up with the exactions of a boss who is a petty tyrant. Let her come home dog weary and with nerves fretted-to-fiddle strings and she would understand why a man doesn't want to do anything but flop down in the chair of an evening and, not even speak or be spoken to.

Many women don't take their housekeeping seriously. They don't think that it worth while studying, as you would music or art or law or medicine. They think any kind of scrambled-up meal is good enough for husband and it doesn't make any difference whether the bathroom is clean and orderly or looks like a pig wallow or that it matters whether a man comes home to a bright, cheerful, comfortable home or one that is disorderly and untidy.

But let the woman who has been working hard all day in the outside world, and who is hungry and tired, turn her face homeward and she wants exactly what a man wants under similar circumstances. She wants a light in the window and a smiling face to welcome her and cleanliness and peace and order and a good hot dinner.

And if men could only change places with their wives now and then, how different their attitude toward them would be. Most men, because they have never tried it, consider a woman's lot one of glorious ease. Nothing is comelier than to hear one say to his wife: "My, I wish I had nothing to do except to stay at home and keep house and take care of the children as you do."

But if they tried it they would find that no work is so never-ending as a woman's in the home, none so monotonous, none so nerve-wearing.

It would reduce any able-bodied man to a wreck to get up and get the family breakfast and fix the baby's bottle and wash behind little Johnny's ears and comb little Mary's hair and hear their lessons and get them off to school and find wife's gloves and overcoat and papers for her and shop around for food and answer the telephone a hundred times and settle a dozen quarrels between the children and get lunch and dinner and pick up clothes and sew on buttons and darn socks and so on and so on.

Let a man do his wife's job but for one day and he would realize how holding down the world's endurance record, and he would see why she needs to go out at night now and then for a little recreation and he would never again talk about supporting her or dole out nickels to her. Nothing is comelier than to hear one say to his wife: "My, I wish I had nothing to do except to stay at home and keep house and take care of the children as you do."

So what a pity it is that husbands and wives can't get each other's point of view now and then!

Questions About Cuba

INDUSTRIES AND CLIMATE

What is the chief industry of Cuba?
A. Raising sugar cane.

Q. How much sugar cane is raised?
A. Enough, during the past twenty years, to produce about four million tons of sugar per year.

Q. What other crops does Cuba raise?

can go through there is by cutting his way. The trees include thirty kinds of palms, of which the most noted is the royal palm. Sometimes a royal palm reaches a height of more than 100 feet. There are likewise ebony, mahogany, rosewood, logwood, Brazilwood, pine, cedar and cinn trees.

Q. What are some of the birds and beasts in Cuba?

A. In the lonely woods of hilly parts of eastern Cuba live the so-called Cuban rat. Rabbits exist in great numbers, and there are caves in several sections where so many bats fly around or cling to the walls as to be almost beyond belief. Hundreds of kinds of birds make their headquarters on the island. These include parrots, cockatoos, bare-legged owls, fairy hummingbirds, hawks, ducks, orioles and warblers.

There were no horses, cows or hogs in Cuba when Columbus and his sailors visited it in 1492. To-day there are wild hogs descended from stock brought over by the Spanish. Dogs and house-cats, also imported from abroad have escaped and formed wild families which are to be met in woods and hills.

Alley Oop—

A. Very pleasant, for the most part; being "neither too warm nor too cold." The summers tend to be wet, however, and in the autumn there is a special danger from hurricanes. From a climate viewpoint, December, January and February would suit most persons best for a visit to the republic.

Q. What kind of climate does Cuba have?

A. The weather is very changeable. The food crops include bananas, pineapples, oranges, and Indian corn. Thousands of tons of pineapples and bananas are exported each year.

Q. What kind of trees grow in Cuba?

A. Cuba has about 18,000,000 acres of land covered by woods and forests. In some places the trees grow so close together that the only way a person the public. All drinks 25 cents."

U.S. FLEET WILL RETURN

Pacific Squadron Posted to Leave Atlantic Next September

The United States Pacific fleet, which has been ordered to concentrate in Atlantic waters, will not remain permanently on the Atlantic, but will return to the Pacific Coast about August next year, it was stated to-day by Commander Alva D. Bernhard, executive officer of the United States aircraft carrier Lexington, who is visiting the city prior to putting to sea with his ship now completing a three-months' overhaul in the Bremer-ton Navy Yard.

Commander Bernhard, who has been a guest at the Empress Hotel for several days, said he came here to rest, and he added that it had been a most delightful and enjoyable one.

The Lexington will sail from Bremerton November 21 to rejoin the main Pacific fleet at San Diego, Calif.

FLEET MANOEUVRES

Under the command of Admiral David F. Sellers the entire U.S. Pacific fleet, totaling 166 units ranging from giant battle cruisers to destroyers and submarines, is scheduled to sail from its Pacific base April 9 next year to engage in fleet manoeuvres en route to the Panama zone.

The Pacific fleet will join up with the Atlantic fleet in Panama waters, and the combined fleets will then engage in manoeuvres, finally arriving at New York and other Atlantic bases.

The Pacific fleet, Commander Bernhard stated, is scheduled to sail from the Atlantic in August next year, and should again reach the Pacific in September.

Small Craft, Without Anyone Aboard, Swept From Moc-roins at Bonavista

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 14.—Driven out to sea by a terrific nor'easter, and stranded two other ships on the east coast of Newfoundland, a small auxiliary schooner owned by James Bellman was still missing to-day after an all-night search.

The little craft was swept away from Bonavista yesterday. She was not manned. The Bonavista Home set out to search for her after the storm abated but early to-day had not reported success.

During the blizzard the schooner took refuge at Coley's Point, ran aground in Canada Bay, Capt. Christopher and his crew reached safety in the boats. A similar escape was made by Captain Rye and the crew of the schooner Nankota, driven ashore 200 miles down the coast at Bonavista. Both the stranded vessels were refloated as total losses.
